

MURDER IN HOT RAGE

Shot Mother-in-Law to Death and Wounded His Wife.

A POSSE ARE PURSUING

Gov. Aycock and Judge Winston Making Telling Speeches in Maine for Education.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 19.—News is just received here of a most fiendish murder committed at falls of the Neuse river, twelve miles from Raleigh. George Tilley, a young farmer, shot and killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lowery, and then shot and seriously wounded his wife, who was at the time sick in bed and had in her arms a babe two weeks old. The man did the shooting while in a rage because Mrs. Lowery was influencing his wife so that she refused to move to another farm, they having lived since their marriage one year ago with the wife's mother.

After the shooting, Tilley went to a nearby store, made a statement and disappeared before a deputy sheriff could reach there from Raleigh in response to a telephone call. Officers and citizens are scouring the country in search of him. Mrs. Lowery was shot in the back of the neck and in the left shoulder while of speech, but is in the right condition. It is thought by some that Tilley was temporarily insane.

Supply Company Chartered.

The Jacksonville Supply Company, of Jacksonville, Oklaw county, was chartered to-day with $5,000 capital to conduct a general mercantile business. Frank Thompson, F. W. Hargett and C. A. Pittaway are the incorporators.

Captain W. H. Day, counsel for the Seaboard Air Line, and one of the most prominent lawyers in the State, was in his office to-day for the first time in four months. The effects of the stroke of paralysis he sustained is gradually disappearing. He still has a slight impediment of speech, but is steadily regaining strength and faculties. For several weeks he was absolutely helpless and speechless.

Papers and Letters from the State of Maine give gratifying reports of the speech-making tour Governor Aycock and Judge Francis D. Winston, of North Carolina, are now making in that State in the interest of education. A letter from State Superintendent of Education Stetson, of Maine, to a friend here, states that the distinguished North Carolinians are being heard by immense audiences, given high praise to the speakers and the sentiments they express.

Open Door to Christianity.

In a very able sermon last night at the First Presbyterian Church, Dr. Alfred H. Moment, the pastor, declared in the course of a sermon on "Manichurism or Russia's Purpose to Close the Door of the Far East Against Protestant Christianity," that, however, the present struggle may terminate, whether in triumph for Russian or Japanese arms, the Eastern open door for Protestant missionaries will be established, whereas but for the plucky struggle of Japan, Manchuria, Korea and ultimately China would surely have been dominated by the narrow evangelic church of Russia.

The Raleigh public schools have opened with about 2,400 pupils, the largest enrollment at any opening in the history of the schools.

The Baptist University for Women opens to-morrow with the largest attendance in its history. The building, which has ever had, it will be probably a month before the Fairchild building will be ready for occupancy.

Between 20,000 and 25,000 spindles were represented in the meeting which was presided over by George B. Hiss as chairman. The following were appointed a committee to draft the formal call for the meeting to be held next week: Messrs. W. C. Wheat, of Monroe; George B. Hiss, of this city; and W. A. Munroe, of Kings Mountain. The committee submitted the following, a copy of which will be sent to the hard yarn spinners throughout the South:

"As the result of an informal conference held in this city to-day, by the undersigned, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas a deplorable condition of affairs now prevails among those manufacturers engaged in the manufacture of weaving or hard cotton yarns, caused largely by the disparity now existing between the price of yarn and the cost of the raw materials; and, whereas the only apparent possible way to bring about a change of existing conditions is for a general conference of all spinners interested to be called to counsel together, therefore, be it resolved

"That the undersigned, hereby issue a call

Robberies at Charlotte.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CHARLOTTE, N. C., September 19.—Whole-sale robberies have been successfully carried out by thieves stealing articles from the freight cars of the Southern Railway Company for some time, and all efforts to effect their capture have been fruitless. Articles of every description have been stolen, some of the cars have been rifled. The thieves do not confine their deeds to the freight yards of the company, but extend them to the function and passenger stations as well. Every means possible to effect their capture has been resorted to by the railroad authorities. It is said that many thousands of dollars worth of merchandise have disappeared within the last few months.

ARMSTRONG WILL NOT MAKE CHANGE

Tobacco Trust Apparently Frustrated in Effort to Retain Old Stamp.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., September 19.—The tobacco trust has apparently been frustrated in its efforts to prevent a change in the design and color of the customs stamp on imported cigars, from a large glaring red to a medium sized green stamp. Assistant Secretary Armstrong, who is now acting as head of the Department of the Treasury, Secretary Shaw, returned to Washington to-day from a trip to New York, where he met representatives of both the trust and the independent cigar manufacturers. The hearing developed nothing new, barring the claim of the trust representatives that they had never heard of the proposed change in the method of stamping imported cigars until a couple of weeks ago, although the matter has been pending before the Treasury Department for several months, was presented to both branches of Congress at the last session, and has been a subject of agitation by the trust for at least three years.

Mr. Armstrong thought they were a little late in making their report, and after listening to arguments, all of which had previously been presented to and considered by the Treasury Department officials, said he saw no reason to modify the order.

The independent tobacco trade is thoroughly organized and aroused on this subject. The stamps are now being prepared, and unless the order is repealed by the President, to whom the tobacco trust representatives have since carried the matter, they should be in the hands of custom officers within three weeks.

DAY ON THE MARKET.

Opened Inactive, With a Decidedly Heavy Tone.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The Evening Post says: The market opened inactive with a decidedly heavy tone. Commission houses reported a considerable volume of business. The leading wire houses appeared to have fully as many selling as buying orders, and during the early trading the market was in a state of equilibrium. The weakness in Steel issues had a depressing effect upon sentiment, as the steadily increasing volume of the widespread acceptance of the reports that a genuine revival has set in in the steel and iron industry had been probably the most effective bulwark argument during the recent advance. Throughout the morning session the market was inactive, and the volume of the list naturally served as an excuse for a revival of the talk about an increase in the dividend. The steel and iron issues were not distributed by A. A. Houseman.

London debt in about 25,000 shares in this market. At the opening, American stocks were quoted below parity in London, and arbitrage houses expected that the sales for foreign account would be small. The decline in the market here, however, soon brought a number of stocks to below parity, with London and arbitrage houses turned buyers. The sales on balance for London account did not amount to over 6,000 shares.

The weakness which Pennsylvania displayed was no surprise to close observers of the market. The manner in which the price was bid up last Sunday was shown to be a mistake, and the strength of the stock was not due to any genuine buying, but to the most flagrant kind of professional manipulation. What would have most surprised close observers have been to see the stock hold strong around this artificial level.

Trading during the afternoon was in smaller volume than during the morning session. As a rule, prices held fairly firm around to lower levels. Commission houses reported that the outside orders had fallen off heavily. Trading appeared to be highly professional, and sentiment regarding the long-term movement of prices was decidedly mixed. The professional element on the floor of the Stock Exchange was heard.

The bank statement came in for a good deal of consideration, and for the first time in months, brokers discussed the possibility of an advance in interest rates, and a possible forced reduction of loans.

All of the steel and iron stocks were weak. Colorado Fuel and Iron was the weakest stock in the group, but Sloss-Sheffield, Republic Steel and Iron stock issues were all reactionary. Nothing developed to explain the weakness in these stocks, other than the reactionary tone of the general market.

The banks shipped $200,000 through the sub-treasury to-day to New Orleans.

During the wild speculation of April and May, 1901, and especially when that movement approached its culmination, each successive day of the week saw a new record for the particular concern. The theory was, that the outside public, having been fed with "bull" talk, by the Sunday paper and having framed its plans for another paper fortune while listening to the sermon, would appear with a deluge of buying orders in the next day's market. Hence the voraciousness of the Monday morning demand was taken to measure the general tone of the speculative pulse. This was not unreasonable inference, in fact, there were still other grounds for watching "Monday openings." Even when the outside public was still rising manfully to its opportunity, it was a question whether the deluge of professional speculators would help things along through buying for themselves, or would select that inane opportunity to "unload" on the convenient outsider.

Perhaps the second of these two Wall Street problems has been the most interesting as applied to the present market, because the public has not been involved in any such way as it was at the time of the speculative boom. The market was distinctly weak, and its weakness was general, though stocks which have been called "cynical favorites" were least so. On the whole, indications were rather plain that the speculators who have been holding the market on the basis of borrowed money were selling.

DAMAGE SLIGHT.

Schooner Injured During Storm Towed Into Port.

(By Associated Press.)

SAVANNAH, GA., Sept. 19.—The three-masted schooner Emily Norham, which was abandoned and set on fire at sea Thursday, after being almost torn to pieces by the heavy gales which she encountered, was taken in tow by the tug W. F. McCauley, Captain Avery in charge, off Cape Roman, and towed into this port.

When sighted the schooner was burning, but the damage from the flames is inconsiderable. The schooner has been practically undamaged. Her mainmast was burned off and a portion of her deck and bulwarks was burned, but otherwise the vessel is not much the worse off for her experience in the storm.

WET MENU OF THE BOWERY SHOUTERS

The followers of Big "Tim" Sullivan held a meeting last night at the T. D. Sullivan club rooms, No. 27 Bowery, at which "Handsome Harry" Oxford, otherwise known as the "Mayor of the Bowery," was chosen to prepare the "menu" for to-day's journey from New York to Saratoga, where the Bowery boys will go for the Democratic State Convention. As he rose to accept the honor conferred upon him, "it will only take me ten minutes to prepare the menu, and I hope you will all remain until I make my report."

True to his word, "Handsome Harry" returned with the following bill of fare: Three hundred bottles of whiskey, One hundred kegs of beer, Two thousand sandwiches, Five hundred cigars, One hundred boxes of five-cent cigars, Two boxes of soft stuff, One hundred pies.

Two hundred packets of cards. "Gents," said "Handsome Harry," in conclusion, "you must remember that this treat is for one hundred of our members, and the trip will only take about five hours. You will, therefore, see that our appetites have been amply provided for."—New York World.
